Waiting.

Nothing definite has been received at present writing of the result of the conference now being held in New York city between representatives of both the Producers and Refiners interests. A contract of opinion prevails as to what decision will be reached. Should the plan be ratified, it is anticipated that the movement of oil will commence very soon at the stipulated price, which will afford immediate and general relief to the country.

Should this attempt at compromise or conciliation prove abortive, there would be a bad feeling between producers and outside refiners which would discourage and hamper all attempts at a future good understanding. The Producers would be impelled in self-defense and retaliation for a breaking of the market to advertise for proposals for reducing their oil, and the local refiners would be driven to their full capacity and new ones probably established. We will not anticipate the commercial or financial results of a disagreement at New York. The indications are hopeful that an agreement mutually beneficial will be entered into.

LATER.—Since writing the above we have received a special dispatch from our own correspondent at New York, which will be found in another column, and from which it appears that a speedy and satisfactory conclusion will be reached.

THE GREATEST OF ALL IS CHARITY.—A short time since Mr. Betty, of the Orphan

School of this place, made an appeal for aid to that institution, for the loss sustained by the fire, through our columns, which has been answered far beyond his expectations, showing that a stronger feeling of philanthropy exists here than some would have us believe. The following letter is a case in point, and explains itself:

MARTIN, December 12.

GENTLEMEN.—Sir: Please accept enclosed draft of one hundred dollars from the ladies of the Aid Society, to be applied to the Soldiers' Orphan School, to aid in their late loss and to aid in their future education. Lizzie C. COLLENDER.

Treasurer, Soldiers' Aid Society.

ACCIDENT.—Another accident, the result of bad driving, occurred on Saturday afternoon, near the corner of Walnut and Martin streets. It appears that Mr. Ware, with one of McCormick's teams, was driving down

Walnut street, with Mr. McNamee's family, when some party attempting to pass him, his horses became unmanageable and ran over, mauling the sleigh and spilling out the occupants, none of whom were injured, however, but one of the horses was badly damaged, receiving a severe cut in the breast, which called for the professional services of Dr. Bender, who is attending the wounds. Unless more care is exercised by drivers of spirited horses, we fear we shall be called upon to chronicle many more serious accidents than this at no distant date.

THE BEST CHRISTMAS PRESENT is to Hall &

Bosley, No. 100 Spring street. They will call you one on small monthly payments, if you desire.

DEATH OF A PIONEER.—The late Seldon

Spencer, whose death is recorded in another column, and whose funeral took place at Enterprise on Saturday last, was one of the pioneers of this section of country and well known to the original families who reside here. The deceased was a native of West Stockbridge, Massachusetts.

He was married and had several children as early as 1820. He was a brother-in-law and former partner of Jeremiah Benedict, deceased father of — Benedict, Esq., of Corry, and for many years followed the timber business. He had enjoyed unconquered health and vigor until he was paralyzed stroke last spring and disabled him, and led to a decline. His son, Theodore Spencer, Esq., of Franklin, is a lawyer, and his daughters married Isaac B. Rowe and C. C. Pettit, of Enterprise, and Asbury Dawson, of Kila-mazo, county, Michigan. The deceased was a member of the Methodist Church, and the funeral discourse was preached by Rev.

J. C. O'Brien, of this city. He was a great many old people present, who had known the deceased from an early day.

FIFTH AVENUE HOTEL FIRE.

Severely at the Morgue—Fearful Array of Corpses at City Hall—Deadly Spectacle—Over 35,000 Viewers.

From the N. Y. Herald, December 12.

The Morgue, at Bellevue Hospital, has witnessed many terrible and heartrending spectacles, but it has rarely presented a picture so terrible and touching in all its details as it did yesterday. As early as 6 o'clock in the morning great crowds of people had assembled in front of the hospital on Twenty-sixth street, eagerly waiting for the first appearance of dawn to gain admittance. Some came to search for dead relatives or friends, wives, sweethearts, or sisters, but the greater portion had no object in view but to gratify the morbid curiosity which is so rife among the ignorant at the occurrence of any disaster. The scene was strongly suggestive of the morning of an execution, but the occasion was a far sadder one, and the spectacle of the most reckless were hushed into temporary solemnity by the thought of the awful tragedy. Numbers of people had followed the ambulances from the hotel, which were carrying off the unfortunate women, and had patiently waited through the long watches of the night to see if among the victims were numbered those they loved. An extra force of police kept guard over the several gates, and none were allowed until the preparations had been made for the disposition of the bodies to public view.

THE NINE COFFINS.

About 5 o'clock the gates were thrown open, and a surging mass of people pressed in. A ghastly sight met their eyes. Scattered upon the flagstones of the Morgue were nine dead coffins containing all that remained of nine women, who the night before had been strong in body, active in mind, with no signs of death. The bodies, dressed in their own clothes, and no thought that they were dead, lay in the Morgue, and the women who were carried off to the Morgue were carried off to the Morgue, and the women who were carried off to the Morgue were carried off to the Morgue.

THE FIRST COFFIN.

The first coffin contained the body of a woman which has not been recognized. The body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.

THE SECOND COFFIN.

In the second coffin the only mark was a small mark on the forehead, which was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.

THE THIRD COFFIN.

The third coffin contained the body of a woman, which was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.

THE FOURTH COFFIN.

The fourth coffin contained the body of a woman, which was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.

THE FIFTH COFFIN.

The fifth coffin contained the body of a woman, which was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.

THE SIXTH COFFIN.

The sixth coffin contained the body of a woman, which was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.

THE SEVENTH COFFIN.

The seventh coffin contained the body of a woman, which was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.

THE EIGHTH COFFIN.

The eighth coffin contained the body of a woman, which was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.

THE NINTH COFFIN.

The ninth coffin contained the body of a woman, which was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.

THE TENTH COFFIN.

The tenth coffin contained the body of a woman, which was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.

THE ELEVENTH COFFIN.

The eleventh coffin contained the body of a woman, which was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.

THE TWELFTH COFFIN.

The twelfth coffin contained the body of a woman, which was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.

THE THIRTEENTH COFFIN.

The thirteenth coffin contained the body of a woman, which was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.

THE FOURTEENTH COFFIN.

The fourteenth coffin contained the body of a woman, which was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.

THE FIFTEENTH COFFIN.

The fifteenth coffin contained the body of a woman, which was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.

THE SIXTEENTH COFFIN.

The sixteenth coffin contained the body of a woman, which was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.

THE SEVENTEENTH COFFIN.

The seventeenth coffin contained the body of a woman, which was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue, and the body was burned, and the head, which had been burned, was found in the Morgue.
